

INTRODUCTION

Workplace injuries, illnesses and other unintentional losses usually don't "just happen"! Most are not random events or "acts of fate". Instead, they tend to result from very predictable causes. And because those causes are usually predictable, we can generally find ways to prevent and control the losses.

Workplace injuries and illnesses cause suffering and loss for individuals, employers and society at large. The goal of this OHS System is to prevent and/or control those losses for the benefit of all.
